

To Whom It May Concern,

My name is Mark Knudson. My wife Allison and I are the parents of a son, Matthew, who has Autism.

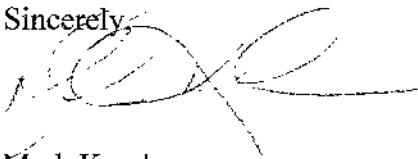

Raising a child with a disability presents a large number of challenges. Very few people that you come across during the course of your child's life have walked in your shoes, or know what to do in a time of crisis. When a problem arises and you need help, you have limited places to turn

When we were faced with a major problem at Matt's school, and things looked bleak for his future within the school system, we were able to turn to Jeff Konrad-Helm for help. Jeff stepped in as an advocate for us. He worked with the school and the school district and secured a better place and better services for Matthew. Because of his expertise in this area, he was able to get things done on our behalf that we would have never been able to do without him.

Our involvement with Jeff Konrad-Helm has made our lives a great deal easier, and has made Matthew's life better in many ways. Today, Matt is in a great situation, and he's doing very well. His future looks bright.

I'm not sure where Matt would be, or how we would have gotten through the trials and tribulations we've faced without the help of Jeff Konrad-Helm. I would recommend that anyone in need of advocacy in this area turn to Jeff as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Mark Knudson', with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.

Mark Knudson